IMPORTANT INFORMATION FOR APPLICANTS

For your land to be considered for 1-d appraisal, you must show that agriculture is your primary source of income and your primary occupation as well as that your land meets eligibility requirements. Effective Jan. 1, 2008, land that secures a home equity loan described by Section 50(a)(6), Article XVI, Texas Constitution cannot be considered for 1-d appraisal. If agriculture is not your primary income source or occupation, you may want to file an application for appraisal under Art. 8, Sec. 1-d-1, which does not require that agriculture be your primary occupation and income source but provides the same tax savings. The appraisal district can provide you with an application and more information.

To qualify for 1-d appraisal, you must file this application after Jan. 1 and no later than April 30 of this tax year. To keep your appraisal, you must file a new application every year. If you miss the April 30 deadline, you can still file until the day before the appraisal review board approves appraisal records for the year, usually in July. If you do file a late application and your application is granted, you must pay a penalty equal to 10% of the tax savings resulting from agricultural appraisal.

You must complete this application in full or your application cannot be granted.
